Formed in 2013 by harpist Hila Ofek and saxophonist Andre Tsirlin, Duo Duor (formerly known as the Jerusalem Duo) is considered one of the most exciting and unique ensembles in today's chamber music scene.

Since its debut, Duo Duor has captivated audiences worldwide and performed at renowned venues such as the Berlin Philharmonic and the Laeiszhalle in Hamburg, as well as at major international festivals.

"The encounter between one of the oldest and one of the youngest instruments in music history unfolds into a rarely heard musical experience. The harp and saxophone, performed by these two musicians, sound in magnificent harmony." – SWR 2

The Frankfurter Neue Presse wrote: "One of the greatest inspirations for the duo seems to be the extraordinary connection with the audience. Duo Duor creates an unforgettable experience in which music becomes a universal language and form of expression that opens a direct path to the heart for every listener."

Duo Duor has been recognized for its outstanding achievements with first prizes at prestigious competitions, including:

- 6th Iberian Chamber Music Competition with Harp in Madrid
- 6th International Competition for Israeli Music in London
- 3rd International TEREM CROSSOVER Competition in St. Petersburg, Russia

As scholarship holders of Live Music Now Frankfurt, Duo Duor has given more than 80 concerts, reaching a diverse audience in unique venues and settings.

On October 3, 2017, Duo Duor performed at the main service for the Day of German Unity in Mainz Cathedral, playing in front of Chancellor Angela Merkel, Federal President Frank-Walter Steinmeier and millions of TV viewers.

Their latest album, OUTFRAMED (2025 – Decurio), is an extraordinary collaboration with the renowned Eliot String Quartet. Seamlessly blending classical and crossover styles, this virtuosic and exciting project showcases the remarkable synergy between the two ensembles in a musical fusion that captivates and inspires.
